[holds marriage certificate]

Interviewer: OK, all right, now it's... we're rolling again. [laughter.] A little choppy.

Brick: We got married in West Hollywood Park. And the city of West Hollywood had set up a bunch of little white cabanas in the park to accommodate all the people that wanted to get married, and wanted to do it quickly because we suspected, and was proven a correct suspicion, that other people in the state would try and shut that down. So, Ruth had just come out of a coma. [Brick and Sullivan hold hands] And I asked her if she'd marry me. And she said, "Well, we can't get married!" I said, "Well, things changed while you were out, dear! You know?" So we were able to get married, and... married in the park in West Hollywood, and the city had deputized a bunch of people to perform wedding ceremonies. And so it was kind of fun.

Sullivan: It was hot.

Brick: It was hot. Small ceremony. Small -- you know, small group of people. And hot!

Sullivan: But, um, we had...
